DPWH chief warns against extortionists

By Jerry E. Sison

MANILA, Philippines — DPWH Secretary Benjamin Sison has issued a stern warning to contractors and suppliers to refrain from engaging in extortionist practices. He said that such actions are not only illegal but also detrimental to the country's infrastructure development.

The secretary stressed that the DPWH is committed to ensuring that all projects are completed on time and within budget. He urged all stakeholders to work together to achieve these goals and to report any instances of extortion to the appropriate authorities.

Sison also mentioned that the DPWH has established a task force to monitor and address any issues related to extortion. He emphasized that the government will not tolerate any form of illegal activity that hinders the progress of its infrastructure projects.

He concluded by saying that the DPWH is dedicated to providing quality infrastructure services to the Filipino people. He encouraged all parties involved in the construction process to maintain high standards of integrity and professionalism.

City's dream come true: Potable water

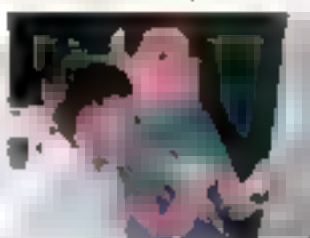

Figure 1. Schematic representation of the experimental design. The subjects were divided into two groups: the control group (CG) and the experimental group (EG). The CG was exposed to a control environment (CE) and the EG was exposed to an experimental environment (EE). The EE was designed to simulate a real-world environment with various stimuli (e.g., visual, auditory, and haptic) and a complex task. The subjects were exposed to the EE for a period of 10 days. The results of the experiment are shown in the table below.

The diagram illustrates the experimental design. It shows a sequence of events: a subject is presented with a stimulus (a word or image), then a response is recorded. The response is then used to determine the next stimulus. The process is repeated for multiple trials. The diagram includes labels for 'Stimulus', 'Response', and 'Next Stimulus'.

Power of Law

By [Name]

The power of law is a concept that has been debated for centuries. Some believe that the law is a tool that can be used to control and manipulate people, while others believe that the law is a force that can be used to protect and promote the rights of the individual.

In the Philippines, the power of law is a complex issue. The country has a long history of being ruled by a few powerful families, and the law has often been used as a tool to maintain their power. However, in recent years, there has been a growing movement to reform the legal system and to make the law more accessible to the people.

This movement is led by a group of young lawyers and activists who believe that the law should be used to protect the rights of the poor and to promote social justice. They have organized a number of campaigns and protests, and they have won the support of many people in the country.

Peso still Asia-Pacific's biggest gainer vs US dollar in July

Manila, July 12 (AP) — The Philippine peso continued its steady climb against the US dollar in July, maintaining its position as the top performer in the Asia-Pacific region. The peso gained 1.2 percent against the dollar, while the Thai baht and the Indonesian rupiah followed with gains of 0.8 percent and 0.5 percent, respectively.

The peso's performance was driven by a combination of factors, including a strong trade balance and a steady flow of foreign investment. The Philippines' trade surplus for the first seven months of the year reached $1.5 billion, a record for the country. Additionally, the government's decision to maintain a flexible exchange rate has helped to attract foreign capital.

Analysts predict that the peso will continue to rise in the coming months, as the Philippines' economic growth remains robust. The country's GDP is projected to grow by 6.5 percent this year, which will further strengthen the peso's position in the market.
